

More Scenes from Anchorage

DePaul University law professor Stephan Landsman presented his research on the impact of the so-called vanishing trial phenomenon at a special presentation on jury trials sponsored by the Roscoe Pound Foundation.

Members participate in a visioning session on AJA's role as "The Voice of the Judiciary" at the 2005 annual conference in Anchorage.

Past AJA president Mike AcAdam was honored twice in Anchorage: with NCSC's Distinguished Service Award (pictured) and AJA's Judge William H. Burnett Award for outstanding service to the association.

AJA members were treated to some native dancing during an evening at the Alaska Native Heritage Center.